WINGS OF HOPE changes and saves lives through the power of aviation. In the U.S., the nonprofit provides medical air transport services – free of charge – to individuals who need access to specialized medical care. The organization also works in nine countries outside of the U.S., working with in-country partners to fly people in remote areas to emergency medical care and fly doctors into communities with no local health care. Wings of Hope has been twice nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. In 2018, Wings of Hope directly served more than 67,000 people around the world.

GRIFFIN

When Amanda and Corey Coe of Columbus, Ohio, learned their baby Griffin would be born with bilateral clubfoot, they began the intense research parents do to ensure their child has the best possible medical care. This led them to Dr. Matthew Dobbs at St. Louis Children's Hospital. After driving 800 miles round trip for the initial consultation with Dr. Dobbs, Amanda and Corey knew Children's was Griffin's best shot for a full recovery — but they didn't know how to make it work.

"Our minds were flooded with thoughts of travel expenses, minimizing the time we were away from our two daughters, and how much we would be absent from our jobs. Wings of Hope provided a way for us to get the best specialized medical care even though we live over 400 miles away. Words will never be able to express our sincerest appreciation for this wonderful organization. We look forward to sharing with Griffin how many people were instrumental in helping him receive full correction to lead a normal life. It was more than just his doctor — it was the pilots, the volunteers, the employees at Wings of Hope, and the generous donors." — Amanda and Corey Coe

From birth to age two, Wings of Hope flew Griffin to St. Louis Children's Hospital more than two dozen times. He is now 3-1/2 years old — and you would never know this mobile toddler ever had any trouble getting around!

KARR BICK KITCHEN + BATH

6 Greenbriar Drive
Ladue, MO 63124

A gorgeous Colonial circa 1935 was chosen by this family of four that wanted a bigger home. They lived in the house for a year before construction began. Architect Paul Fendler, PK Construction, Amy Studebaker Design and Karr Bick Kitchen & Bath were enlisted to make this happen.

A periwinkle blue, called Notable Hue by Sherwin Williams was chosen for the custom Mouser cabinets.

The large island is ideal for gathering. To keep it visually symmetrical, but to have extra seating, two backless stools were tucked in on one side. Custom refrigerator panels create continuity and decorative toe kicks add interest.

The adjoining mudroom in a crisp white finish, offers custom appliances garages and lockers with doors for this busy family.

Hakwood

The homeowner had already worked with Kitchen and Bath designer Kathy Israel on her previous home. When it was time to build their dream home, they called Jeff Bernstein of Jeffrey Homes and looked no further than Accent on Cabinets. Together, they collaborated to design a space that was tailored to meet the needs of their family. The criteria were simple... timeless yet functional. The house needed to be elevated and elegant, but it had to be a living space that was not too precious! The open floor plan with imported European white oak floors opens to the great room and large dining area that is perfect for entertaining and exudes warmth and tactility. The large Wolf range and Modernaire hood were going to be a focal point of the kitchen as you walked into the space, so it was important to find the perfect counter top that would work with the overall design.

The client already knew her style; clean, classic, with touches of modern and farmhouse. She loved the warmth that the perfect gray can do for a space, so the team started with that on the floor in her wide plank wood choice as a base to the room, then opposed it with a clean bright architectural box beamed ceiling. Using sophisticated tall white cabinetry and a dark island, they loaded this kitchen up with intentional storage and high-end appliances.

Symmetry was key as they based the focal wall off an elegant yet modern hood. A full height quartz backsplash, which is the same marble style material as the thick topped island, completes this space! They've tied in a bar to the edge of the kitchen, included a space for the farmhouse table, and being open concept design, the family room is a gorgeous extension of the kitchen.

This kitchen was tailored to fit the lifestyle of a family of six. The European oak grain hardwood floors establish a light, textured palette. Inspired by clean, rustic and farmhouse characteristics they blended a softened, white cabinetry with contrasting dark, suede black granite creating definition in the space. The large-scale dark distressed island houses a microwave, refrigerator drawers, an ice maker, prep sink and comfortable seating. The thick quartz countertop on the island amplifies with the large-scale, industrial-style chandeliers flanking above. It contains a concrete style, apron-front sink and a unique tile backsplash using metal as an accent. A floating shelf with two hanging sconces above the sink keep an airy farmhouse feel. The hood sets an industrial, yet impressive centerpiece. With high-end appliances to top it off, this clean farmhouse style kitchen is a chef and families dream!
